Select garage door models to be available for purchase and professional installation through Lowe's Home Services

December 1, 2020 - Wayne Dalton, a leading manufacturer of residential and commercial door solutions, has partnered with Lowe's Home Improvement stores to sell select models of the brand's garage doors through the home improvement retailer's locations nationwide. Starting in October, select models will be available through the Lowe's Home Services program for professional installation by local, independent Wayne Dalton dealers.

"Homeowners who already turn to Lowe's for top-quality products will now have a new option for dramatically enhancing the curb appeal of their homes with a new Wayne Dalton garage door," said Daniel Christian, Vice President of Marketing at Wayne Dalton. "For more than 65 years, homeowners have chosen Wayne Dalton® garage doors for their style, performance, durability and safety features. Being available at Lowe's adds convenience to that list."

Initially, Lowe's will offer select Wayne Dalton Classic and Steel Carriage House Steel doors. Future phases of this partnership will provide customers the ability to purchase additional Wayne Dalton models at Lowe's stores.
