Wayne Dalton™ Introduces New Black Privacy Window Option for Residential Garage Doors

November 19, 2026 - Wayne Dalton, a leading manufacturer of residential garage door, commercial door and loading dock solutions, has expanded its residential design offerings with a new Black Opaque Polycarbonate window glazing option. Combining a bold black appearance with 100% opacity, the new glazing gives homeowners a distinctive alternative to traditional garage door windows while providing complete privacy. The option is available on Models 8300, 8310, 8350, 8500, 8600, 8670 and 8680.

As black accents continue to influence exterior home design, the new glazing gives homeowners another way to coordinate the garage door with black window frames, trim and exterior hardware. Its sleek appearance can create dramatic contrast across a variety of garage door colors and styles while maintaining privacy through 100% opaque construction.

"The garage door is an important part of a home's exterior, and even details like the windows can have a significant impact on the overall design," said Chris Williams, Wayne Dalton Product Manager. "Our new black opaque glazing gives homeowners another way to personalize their garage door with a contemporary design element while adding the benefit of complete privacy."

The new glazing is designed for residential exterior applications. Constructed from 1/8-inch polycarbonate, the UV-resistant material features a surface coating that helps protect against scratches and everyday wear. Its durable construction provides an alternative to traditional glazing for homeowners seeking a modern appearance and added privacy.

The addition expands the range of design choices available across Wayne Dalton's residential garage door portfolio, giving homeowners greater flexibility to coordinate one of the home's largest exterior features with their overall architectural style.
