

CUSTOMER PROCESS

Wayne Dalton adds another dimension to making your garage door uniquely yours with our new TruChoice™ Color System, offering 6000+ colors. Coordinate your garage door color with your home's trim, window shutters or favorite paint color. With TruChoice™, your garage door possibilities are almost limitless.

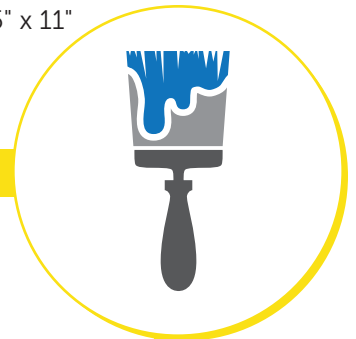

1) Select your garage door.

Choose your door, panel design, windows and hardware.

2) Choose your color.

Provide your dealer with one of the following to get your custom color.

- Manufacturer, color name, and color number OR
- RAL Classic number OR
- Provide a reference paint sample – it must be
 - At least 1.25" x 1.25" but no larger than 8.5" x 11"
 - One color
 - Flat (not curved)

3) Order your door

Your Wayne Dalton dealer will order your garage door using either the color number provided or by sending your paint sample to the plant.

If you submit a paint sample and would like a color chip of your paint color, a fee will be charged to cover setup and paint costs. A color chip will then be sent to you for approval.

4) Receive your door

Once your door's paint has been mixed, the factory will compare it to the paint sample supplied. If the paint color is within one visible shade (1.0 Delta E as measured by our spectrophotometer) of the paint sample provided, the door will be shipped back to your dealer for installation.

Limitations: While we have a vast amount of colors to customize your garage door, we are unable to match wood grain, stains or metallic finishes. There are also a few extreme colors we may not be able to match.
